

ABSTRACT

Described are methods and devices relating to reconnecting the urethra and bladder after a radical prostatectomy, wherein the devices incorporate tissue approximating structure to maintain contact between a severed bladder neck tissue and a
5 severed urethral stump tissue, preferably without the use of sutures.

9216

10